

Frank Football is a financial analyst for Goldman Sachs and he loves college football and betting. Having bragging rights with his co-workers is very important to him.

The main problem is that he hardly ever wins his bets and has lost a lot of money from sports betting. Even worse, his co-workers have been hitting on all of their bets and making crazy money

One day, he found out that his friends use the College Sports Fantasy app. He downloads the app and sees all of the great features that it has.

On this app, Frank Football now has access to betting odds on all college football games that are updated as the sports book is updated.

Now, Frank Football is able to bet more effectively on all college football games. Now backed up with team stats and constantly updated betting odds, he can't lose!

Now, Frank Football has made so much money thanks to the College Sports Fantasy app, and now has all the bragging rights with his co-workers.

Toddy Chad has been wanting to find a way to make quick money. He has been struggling financially with his house payments and just money for food.

Toddy Chad decided he wants to download the College Sport's Fantasy app because he wants to make some quick money.

---

Toddy joins the College Sport's Fantasy app and starts to figure out how it works and what he needs to do.

Toddy Chad joins a league and begins winning some money and playing and competing with new friends.

Toddy Chad checks his phone the next morning after joining and sees that he already won some money!

---

Toddy Chad keeps working with the app and wins more and more money, and he is finally able to support himself.

John Simpson loves football and has a fantasy football team for the NFL and usually competes with his friends.

John Simpson wants a fantasy for college football because he wins a lot of money from the NFL one but doesn't know about any fantasy apps about college football.

One day he heard someone talking about this new app, College Sports Fantasy, and downloaded it.

He went home and told all his friends about this app and they started the fantasy football together.

shutterstock.com · 231073549

After they started the draft, John wasn't so lucky this time at first, but then he started winning a lot of money again.

shutterstock.com • 1502417936

John was happy with the app and how he can win more money than all of his friends again in something else that he loves.

Fratty Fred still misses playing football every day since he got injured in high school. His job makes him sad.

Fratty Fred loves professional football, but it doesn't give him the thrill that college football does.

Fratty Fred finds the app College Sports Fantasy on the app store and decides to give it a try.

He falls in love with the app immediately, and puts his bets on some of his favorite college football teams. Fratty Fred tells his friends about the app and they download it too.

Fratty and his friends have a blast with their new app. The boys go to the bar and tell their friends at the bar about the app too. They all enjoy the app and its perks together while enjoying cheap beer.

Fratty Fred has won the most money out of all of his friends. He is happier than ever and uses some of his money to buy a new Xbox!

After getting a divorce, Larry lost custody to both of his kids and lost the 2 things that gave him the most fulfillment in life

Being extremely alone, he was left alone watching college football. Yet, he wanted more.

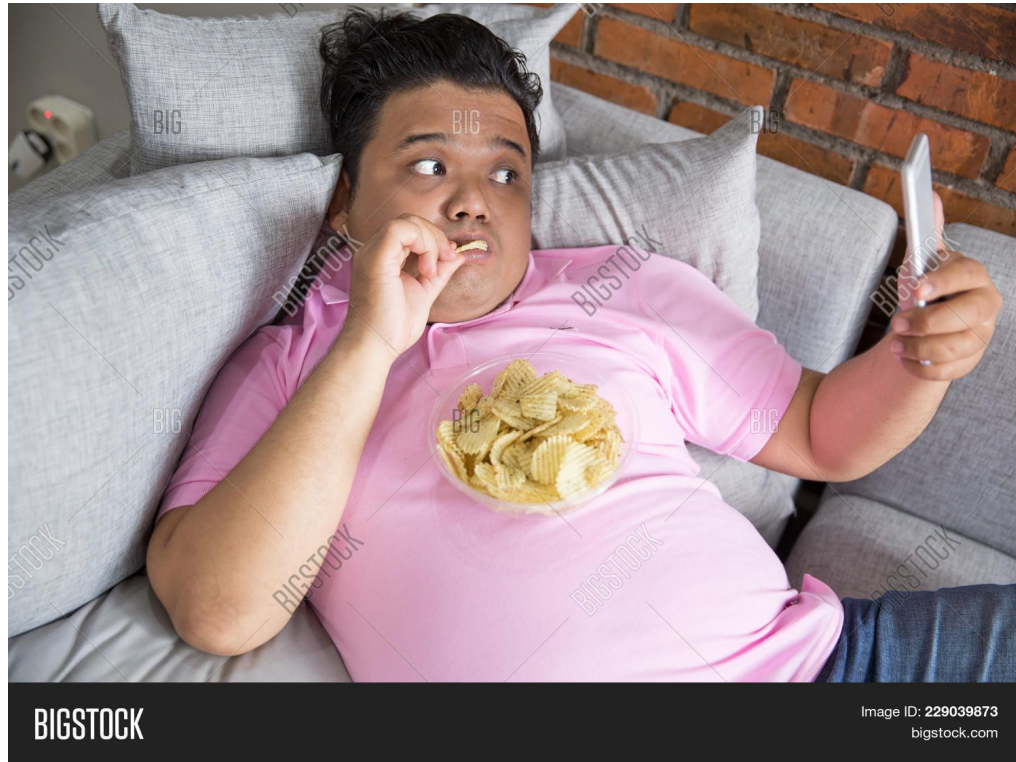

Being a frequent NFL better and fantasy football megamind in the past, Larry wanted to do something similar with college football.

While browsing the App Store, Larry finds CSF: College Sports Fantasy. He is ecstatic to find something so great.

Hurriedly, Larry makes his account, drafts his college sports fantasy team. He then bets on some college sports parlays.

Due to his keen football knowledge, he instantly cashes out on his various parlays. He is happy-ish.

Finding something that makes him happy, Larry is content with his life. He is currently trying to gather enough money to make him financially capable to have split custody of his children.